A LETTER FOUND ON THE STREET. WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

I'm in need of some hands, so I'll give you a job; If m in need of near leading a first of the Big wages I cannot afford.

If you work I suppose, you expect to get paid,

Not for pleasure, reputation or board.

I was thinking of taking a troupe on the road— Every actor must make a big hit; Every actor must make a big mt;
If your wardrobe is poor and you're afraid of hard work,
You can pack up your bundle and quit.
Barsoo and Razzoo, I think, are slow towns,
So I'll give them the go by in haste;
If we play there I'll have the billposter watched— Last season he ate up my paste! have just bought a fish with two feet and one eye,

I have just bought a han with two teet and one eye three tails, nine ribs and one fin; It will draw a big crowd in the town where I live. If it does, why, we'll show there agin! When business is bad don't wear a long face, All wages I'll pay when they're due.

Just think of the money you can save in a year, with hirrories and one see. With "twenty and cakes" for the two. If your act makes a hit, don't get a swelled head If your act makes a bit, don't get a swelled head And kick for "more stuff" like a gill.

If the audience don't say the show is first class, I'll surely find somebody that will.

Isaw your "ad." in THE CLIPPER, so I'll grab you first, You must dress on and off "up in G;"

Don't kick to outsiders and say I'm no good, pont kick to otherwisers and say I'm no good, for it's sure to come right back to me. You must all call me "Mister" whenever we meet, And march yourselves straight in a line. Any fellow caught mashing or late to his meals, Is subject to ten dollars fine. We travel by rail in my palace box car; Fine printing and costumes quite grand

All I want now's a man to wash dishes and scrub. Make beds and play drums in the band. Make beets and play arums in the band.

He must have a good voice, play small parts in an act—
Take care of the trunks and shift scene.
Each actor is allowed one egg every week—
There's not a bone in my body that's mean.

80 send me your picture and the size of your head,

And I'll get you a fine lithograph
You can act in my troupe as long as you like,
Providing you make the folks laugh. ED. LOGAN.

A REALISTIC TRAGEDY.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY ETTIE ROGERS.

"He has very nice ways-this new fellow," said Sidney Rochester, adjusting his umbrella a little more carefully, to shield his companion from the driving rain. They-Sidney and his betrothedvere leaving the theatre together after their last rehearsal of a new play which was to be presented to the public the next evening.

The "new fellow" mentioned had introduced himself to the company as Joseph Hackette, an English actor of lifelong experience in his profession. He had appeared at a moment when the manager was in despair over the illness of a talented young actor who had been engaged for an important character in the new play. Hackette applied for the part, proved his ability, and got it.

"He has nice ways, our new friend has," Roches ter repeated, carelessly.

"Well, I don't like his ways, nor his looks, nor anything about him," Fansle Marchant replied.

Voice and manner were disturbed—so much so that Sydney glanced at her in questioning surprise. Her face, even to the lips, was absolutely colorless; and her large blue eyes were dilated like those of a person in deadly terror.

"But why, Fansle? Why do you dislike his appearance so much?" Rochester inquired in wonder. "He frightens me," the young actress said, with a nudder. "Whenever he turns those black, oblique eyes toward me, and shows his narrow, white teeth in his peculiar smile, I feel as if he were only wait ing for a chance to kill me." "But that's all nonsense, you know, my dear.

You've never seen the fellow before anywhere, have you?" said Rochester, showing more perplexity

"I don't know; mightn't he be disguised?" the girl returned, with the simplicity of a child.

ydney Rochester laughed merrily. He believed that he understood it all.

You are overworked and nervous, my darling When you are all my own, sweet, I think I will tak you away from the stage altogether-for a few years anyway! Our life is too hard for such a sensitive and imaginative little body as you are," he said to

"Will you always love me so much, Sidney?" she asked, with a faint smile.

His answer was grave and earnest:

"It is very easy, Fransie, for a man to tell a woman how much he loves her. But I think you realize the strength and endurance of my affection without the telling," he said.

"Suppose I should test it by disclosing some great error of my past, Sidney? Would your love survive—" she begun in a strange, intense voice.

He interrupted has been also been as the property of the proper He interrupted her by playfully pressing one hand upon her quivering white lips.

"Your past is nothing to me. In your future l trust absolutely. Let that satisfy you, my sweet love," he replied, in a voice and manner meant to end the melancholy discussion then and there.

But his betrothed was not satisfied, allthough she tried to assume her ordinary manner of gentle serenity, and although she strove to conquer the sin-gular premonition of evil which had suddenly as-

If I had only told Sidney everything in the b ginning, I should have saved myself this dreadful fear and dread of—I know not what," she murmured to herself in an agony of vague terror. She had not recovered her usual tranquility the next evening even when the curtain rolled up for the initia act of the new play. The piece was one of those picturesque and superficial productions which have meral popularity and are then relegated to

There was one tragic scene where a husband, long believed dead, attempted to assassinate the lover of the bride whom he had deceived into a hasty mar-riage, and who had discovered his treachery and abandoned him almost at the altar steps.

It immediately preceded the closing sot; and, as the played progressed, Fansie Marchant contem-plated the mock tragedy with an alarm and horror which almost unnerved her, and which were intensified with each passing moment.

"On, do be careful! Do be on your guard against that man. I distrust him, foolish as it must seem. And I have a presentiment of evil which I can't shake off," she whispered once to Rochester. Rochester was the lover of the play. She was herself the heroine bride; while the strange actor revengeful husband of the mock tragedy. Her betrothed only smiled indulgently at her impassion warning. He thought this Joseph Hackette a rather wild looking fellow, whose flery glances were not quiteagreeable. But the idea of the man attempting any grewsome reality seemed to him preposterous

"i'll keep an eye on Hackette's movements, because she wishes it, and because I've promised.

But it's all arrant nonsense. Why should he try any

His assailant had allowed him no time to defend himself, nor any chance to avert the savage thrusts.

But providentially the terrible blade had not struck

With a piteous cry the girl flung herself forward on Rochester's breast. His blood gushed forth, dyeing crimson her silken white gown, and spattering her golden hair with the warm drops. In a twinkling he curtain rattled down amid such excitement as had never before been witnessed in that temple of amusement. became stern and determined, and his dark eyes flashed lightning. The look and movement ex-pressed deflance of anyone who should dare attempt to part him from her whom he loved.

Before he could speak one of his fellow actors entered and walked over to where he lay. The young man was one of the number who had hustled the iserable Hackette out of the theatre.
"The wretch has escaped justice in this world.

He'll never try any realistic tragedy again, Sid," he

PAULINE BATCHELLER.

Pauline Batcheller (Mrs. Robt, Richmond) was forn in 1864. She made her first appearance on any stage at the old Baltimore Opera House, then under the management of James L. Kernan. She was known as La Belle Pauline, and toured this country, Australia and New Zealand. She was two years with the Dalys' "Vacation" Co., but has mostly been connected with the leading burlesque and vaudeville companies, where she gained her reputation. Last season she was engaged as leading lady with the May Russell Co. for two years. In November

she was married to Robert Richmond, of Fish and

Richmond, on the stage of the Front Street Opera House, Worcester. A few weeks ago, in connection with Chas. L. Stumm, she purchased the May Russell Burlesque Co., and is now working for her own interests, having drawn many a week's salary which

At about three o'clock in the afternoon I came along to a Kentucky "squat," which differed from a hundred others only in the fact that a woman and boy sat on a log in front of the opening in the brush fence, which might be termed the gate, and because six dogs were lying in the sun instead of the usual three or four. I asked after the man of the house and the woman replied:

"He 'un haint home just now."

"Be back soon ?"

I reckon. He un has gone down the road a piece to drop that Dave Smith.

"To what?" I asked.

"To drop Dave Smith." "Do you mean he has gone to shoot Smith ?"

"Sartin. They 'uns has bin wantin' to pop at each other fur a long time."

"Thar she clatters!" shouted the boy as the report of a gun reached our ears; and he was off down the road like a deer. "Reckon the old man dropped him," calmly observed the woman as she went on with her work of patching an old woolen shirt.

I expressed my unbounded surprise at this sort of man hunting, but she said it was one of the cus-toms, and had to be lived up to. In about ten min-utes the boy reappeared, and, sitting down on the log to get his breath, he said: "Pop's a coming."

"Drop Smith?" she queried, without even looking ap.

"No; Smith dropped him. Pop's got buckshot in the shoulder. Better git things ready."
"Reckon I had, Jim," she said, and, getting up, she folded her work and moved into the house without the least sign of excitement. A few minutes later the husband came up at a slow walk, with the fresh blood dripping from his shoulder, and halted long enough in front of me to say:

"Evening to you, stranger. Sort of make your-self to home. I went out to drop Smith, but the onery varmint was waitin' behind a bush and dropped me. Git the blood washed off and the shot picked out, and we'll hev a visit. You, Jim, take his knapsack and show him whar to wash up."

A Fight With a Bear.

Supervisor Du Bois, of Denning, Sullivan Co., N. r., relates a story of a remarkable fight with a bear. John Herndon resides in the town of Neversink Sullivan Co., which borders on Ulster, where he was a small farm. When he went home one afternoon, after he had chopped wood hard all day long in a forest close by, his wife told him that she had seen a bear climbing up the apple trees in the or-chard behind their house in a vain search for fruit. Farmer Herndon said that he would track Bruin through the snow. He started out with his trusty close on his heels.

A quarter of a mile or so from the house the bear was found up a tree. The hunter fired, but the shot instead of mortally wounding the bear, only irri-tated it. The hunter had forgotten to bring shot along, but, fortunately, he had powder. As the bear was rapidly descending it was the work of an instant for Herndon to kick away the snow with his feet, and load the muzzle of the gun, after the pow-der was put in, with small pebbles.

Just as the bear had reached the ground the farmer fired. Bruin turned on his pursuer. The man's clothing was torn from his body, and his fiesh was bruised and bleeding. The gun was broken in two by the enraged animal, and, if it had not been for the faithful dog, which kept biting and worrying the bear, thus distracting Bruin's attention, the farmer would in all probability have been killed.

Just as his cries were becoming almost inarticu-late some woodchoppers, returning home from work in the adjoining woods, were attracted by the bark-ing of the dog, and they hastened to the spot and quickly dispatched the shaggy bear with their axes. The farmer was assisted to his home, followed by the faithful dog. The canine's flesh was terribly lacerated, and it was covered with blood. At times the dog would lie down on the snow and moan pitifully. The bear's carcass weighed two hundred and twenty pounds.

"No, sin," said Willie Wishington, "I don't believe in all these old sayings, don't you know. Poh instance, I thought Harrison would be nominated." "Did you?" "Y-a-a-s. But they say the unexpected always happens. So I took it foh gwanted that somebody else would be." "Did you?" "Y-a-a-s. The only way I can explain it is that I was expect-ing the unexpected, and that thealfoh the unexpected became the expected, and if the unexpected was the expected the expected was the unexpected, and theahfoh-great heavens! Waitah, get me a cabl"-Washington Star.

ugly trick when he's a stranger who can't possibly have any grudge against me?" Sidney commented mentally, as he presently walked away from his flancee. The young actress looked after him with unutterable anxiety upon her beautiful face.

"If I only dared tell Sidney what I suspect? And yet no doubt it is all my foolish imagination, aroused by the singular coincidences of the play. Alas, if this haunting fear proves true, it will be a fatal coincident indeed!" she said to herself. A mo ment later her appearance was required in the tragic scene which she so dreaded. Swinging in a hammock, within an exquisitely designed bower, nammock, within an exquisitely designed lower, she hearkened to her lover as he repeated the "old, old story," which is ever new and enthralling, whether on the mimic stage or in actual life. At that interesting moment Hackette springs through the greenery, and bounds upon them with the ferocity of a tiger.

He laughs like a maniac, and brandishes aloft a glittering dagger. But it was not the property dag-ger used by his predecessor, nor were the words he hurled savagely at the couple the lines demanded by the play. And, besides, he had removed the raven black hair with which they were familiar, showing thick and closely cropped curis of a flery red. Miss Marchant fully recognized him now. Her suspicions had not been unwarranted, and she had been correct in surmising that he might be diaguised.

She started to her feet with a bitter cry of mor terror, and then dropped back in her hammock half fainting. The audience supposed it was all acting and she was applanded for a second; and then s strange breathless hush settled upon the house The spectators began dimly to perceive that some thing was amiss.

ckette laughed that demoniac, crazy laugh he fixed his flaming eyes with a sneer upon the half

"Oh, I shan't hurt you," he said, with evil glee in his exultant tones. "I intend you shall live—a life which shall be one long punishment. It is your lover I shall kill."

With the threat he leaped upon Rochester, dealing thrust after thrust with his sharp elastic blade.

any vital part. His worst hurt was a disabled shoulder which would keep him an invalid for some time very likely. And his most serious danger was from loss of blood. He regained his senses while his an-happy betrothed was still kneeling beside him. "It was all my fauit, Sidney! I shall always blame myself!" she cried piteously. "My darling, you pain me beyond expression.

How can it be your fault?" he said, reproachfully.

And then the girl sobbed forth an explanation of everything which had so mystified him. Some seven or eight years previously she had been forced into a hateful marriage by the uncle who was her guardian and only relative. In less than an hour after the ceremony she had managed to effect her flight from them all. And a few days later she joined a traveling troupe of theatrical people. A few months after she was informed that the man to whom she had been united had perished in a rail-

When Hackette appeared as a substitute for the When Hackette appeared as a substitute for the sick actor, she no doubt would have recognized him at once, despite the black wig disguising his na-turally red hair, had she not so long believed him dead. As it was she could not really credit her own suspicions. And then the extraordinary similarity between the play and the dramatic events of her wn life, bewildered and unnerved her.

In her uncertainty she scarcely knew what was est to do. And of course the name told her nothing. as Hackette was only an alias. She biamed hersel bitterly for not having confessed to her betrothed bitterly for not having contessed when devoted everything long before. As she had not done so he was naturally inclined to disregard her warning, believing her only nervous and fanciful. When she had finished, her lover put one hand ressingly on her bowed head.

"My darling, you are entirely blameless. You have tried often enough to tell me this sad story, but you know I always checked you," he reminded

"But anyway, Sidney, we are parted forever; have you not thought of that?" she said, chokingly. Rochester half lifted himself from the sofa on which they had laid him. His pale face suddenly

Just as they were about consigning him into the ody of an officer, he tottered and fell lifeless at their feet. For a moment there was a strange sil ence. Then Rochester drew a long breath and turned an eloquent look upon his betrothed. But the young actress had fainted. The sudden revolunerves. When Rochester had recovered his strength and health the lovers were quietly married.

There can no happier married pair. But neither will ever recall without a shudder the realistic tragedy of that memorable night.

Three Years Without a Summer.

January and February of 1816 were warm and Springlike. March was cold and stormy. Vegeta tion had gotten well along in April when real ter set in. Snow and sleet fell on seventeen differ ent days in May. In June there was either frost or snow every night but three. The snow was five inches deep for several days in succession in the in-terior of New York and from ten inches to three feet in Vermont and Maine. July was cold and frosty; ice formed as thick as window panes in every one of the New England States. August was still worse; ice formed nearly an inch in thickness and killed nearly every green thing in the United States. In the Spring of 1817 corn, which had been kept over from the crop of 1815, sold for from $5 to $10 a bushel, the buyers purchasing for seed. On May 10, 1830, snow felt to the depth of a foot in Jamestown, Va., and was piled up in huge drifts in most of the Northern States. There was snow in many parts of lowa and Illinois on May 11, 1878, and again as late as May 23, 1882.—Boston Journal.

A YOUNG "LAWYER," whose love of ease makes practice distasteful, and whose ample purse makes it unnecessary, excused himself from a luncheon party the other day, saying, "I must go to my office." Said the hostess, laughingly, "We didn't know you had an office." "Not have an office!" he replied. "Why, if I didn't, what would I have to stay away from?"

Notes From Walter L. Main's Shows.—Sunday, July 17, we made a run from Beloit, Wis., to La Porte, Ind., passing through Chicago. We could plainly see the World's Fair buildings from our train. Most of the boys spent Sunday in the Windy city. Geo. S. Cole visited his aged mother and brother Albert's family, who reside there. Ernest Houghton and J. L. Fusner, former employes of the show, visited us 11. They had not seen the show since 1890, and were surprised at its healthy growth. July 13 was Mr. Main's thirtieth birthday, and free lunch and drinks for everybody was the order of the day. Mrs. Waiter Main presented her husband with a massive soltaire diamond ring. Mrs. Sig. Dawn joined at Elwood. Mr. Main bought a fine span of dapple grey horses at Maucie. Burt Fisher is again sick, and Fred Fisher took him home to Waterbury, Ct. He had a parelytic stroke. A subscription of over $100 was raised for him. Albert Gaston and family visited us at Columbus. At Seymour, Ind., a miniature cyclone struck us shortly after the afternoon performance, and blew down and badly tore our circus and hippodrome canvas. We put side canvas around the seats and showed at night, and have been giving regular performances without a top ever since. The menagerie tent stood firm, and was not injured. Our business for the last three weeks has been the largest in the history of the show. In many instances we have turned away people. One of the firm of Thompson & Vandeveer, canvas makers, of Cincinnati, came on with a small army of sailmakers, and they went to work repairing the canvas, which was up Monday, 25. A new round top, isoft, with four 5oft, middle pieces, has been ordered, and will be ready in two weeks, when three rings and two elevated stages will be used. New extra seats are being made. We surely go South the coming Winter. Mr. Main says "he is in the business for life, and nothing short of the largest and best show will satisfy him." Our show is a least one third larger than when we opened, on April 23, and is still growing.

VARIETY OF THE ST

MANAGER JOHN D. HOFKINS is back from England, and great is the talk in vandeville circles, for the clever and daring enterpreneur has been remarkably busy during his trip across the ocean. He is to have two big troupes en tour the coming season—The Howard Atheneum S'ar Specially Co., and his own new show, he Hopkins' Trans-Oceanic Co. The Howard show, he avers, will be stronger than ever, and is already booked solidly for fifty-two weeks. The Trans-Qeanics open Nov. 7, at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Thearte, this city. This latter show is the apple of Mr. Hopkin's eye, as it may well be, for it includes the cream of foreign successes, and will introduce to America some noted performers. Everybody will be glad to hear that clever Herr Trewey is coming back to us. He is the master of his a coming back to us. He is the master of his and he will have plenty of new stuff. The famous Lars Larsen family of gymnasts, head balancers and somersantists; Servals Le Roy, the Belgian conjuror, with his illusion, "The Three Graces;" M. Nizarris and Mile. Thora, in an acrobatic specialty; J. Stratty, musical performer; Carrie Joy, descriptive vocalist; Guibal and Greville, thought readers; Kryer Bros, eccentric dancers; Dixon Bros, musical clowns, and the Sisters Oliver, in songs and dances, are the other newcomers. Besides these, clever Marguerite Fish and her husband, Charles Warren, will make their American appearance, after a long absence, in sketches, vocalisms and dances, and there will also be seen such favorites as Mile. Bertoid, Kars, Melville and Stetson, the Allisons, Whitey and Leonard, and the De Forrests. If this isn't a pretty strong roster, we are mightily mistaken. Manager Hopkins may safely be congratulated on his enterprise.

"Riakro by Till Siga."—The little stretch of country within forty miles of the sprat theatrical centre, reaching from the Highlands of Navestink to Red Bank, on both sides of the Shrewabury Flower, J. j. is where many of the profession seek rest and Summer outing. All along the river, Nerron & Warson's Burkesque Co. will have entirely new scenery and painting, which is completed. The company are all engaged and the time all booked. W. B. Watson is doing a Dutch clown with the T. K. Burke Circus.

THE NEW GLOBE THEATER, Niagara Falls, N. Y., opened July 25 with the following company: Le Pett Freddie, Maud Beverly, Lucier and Archmer, Starr Sisters and Clara Franklin. The house was crowded, and each performer scored a hit. This week the attractions are: Will H. Fox ("Paddywhiskey"). This cosy little theatre is a sure success, and the proprietors, Tierney & Mahoney, declare that they will have only the best of talent. So says their manager, Harry Clark.

maid. An investigation into the origin of the fire was made by the Fire Marshal, and it was his opinion that the flames were started by a lighted eigarette.

On Jan. 8, 1891, the Glisey estate signed a lease giving to Henry C. Miner the occupancy of a new theatre for ten years. The Glisey estate agreed to build a new fireproof theatre.

On Feb. 26 the work of excavating the ruins began. The task of laying foundations for the theatre was hindered by unexpected difficulties. At one end of the property a spring was tapped, at another a nuge rock was discovered. The old Glisey mansion in Twenty-eighth Street was torn down, and its site added to the playhouse.

The owner of the adjoining building refused to sanction the usual procedure of shoring up his wall, whereupon the architect hit upon the plan of bielding the theatre wall on brick plers inside of steel caissons driven down to bed rock, after which the earth of the cellar was removed and the caissons were filled with brick laid in Portland cement. This novel idea was approved of by the owner next door and the Building Department. But it entailed such arduous work that August was reached before the cellar was ready for its superstructure. The work of making the plans for the new theatre was intrusted to Francis H. Kimball, who had constructed many first class theatres, including the Madison Square, Harrigan's and the Casino.

The old iron columns on the Twenty-eighth Street side are out of architectural harmony with the new facade. These columns occupy about half the sidewalk, and were the only part of the front not pulled down after the fire. They were to give place to a new portice, but it was found that to remove them would be to restore the sidewalk to the public, and once so restored it was found that to remove them would be to restore the sidewalk to the public, and once so restored it was found that to remove them would be to restore the sidewalk to the public, and once so restored it was found that to remove them would be to restore the sidewalk to the

The house reopened Aug. 8, with "Settled Out of Court," W. H. Gillette's adaption of "La Famile de Point Biquet." Its first performance in America was at the National Theatre, Washington, D. C., Aug. 1, by the same company that produced it in New York.

was located on the southeast corner of Twenty-third Street and Sixth Avenue. The property was purchased July 1, 1867. After the buildings that stood upon the land had been removed a foundation of solid rock was discovered, which had to be consisting of three lots on Sixth Avenue with a front on Sixth Avenue of 59ft. 3in., by a depth of 64ft. on Twenty-third Street, 150ft., by a height of 75ft, from the ground to the cornice.

cavity upon the stone beneath was placed a box containing the following: One of the badges made in commemoration of the tercentenary of Shakein commemoration of the tercentenary of Shakespeare's birthday. Photograph of the bust of Shakespeare, with views of Stratford-upon-Avon. Copy of the "Life of Junius Brutus Booth," by his daughter, Mrs. Asia Booth Clark. Two photographs of Junius miniature plaster cast of Edwin Booth. Two photographs of the same. Acting copy of "Hamlet," as produced by Edwin Booth at the Winter Garden, in the Fall of 1884, and which was performed for one hundred consecutive nights. Acting copy of 'Richelieu," produced at the Winter Garden in the Fall of 1865. Two photographs of James H. Hackett. Two circulars, contributed by Mr. Hackett, in relation to the monument erected in Central Park in commemoration of the Shakespeare tercentenary. Collection of play bills of the present day. A number of ancient and modern coins. Copies of the leading daily journals of the city of New York. Copy of the complete works of Shakespeare. Documents contributed by H. R. Delandeld in reference to the "Hamlet Medal Presentation" to Edwin Booth. The box being placed in the cavity, Mr. Hackett, in layling the corner stone, used the same trowel that officiated when a similar ceremony took place at the Shakespeare Monument in Central Park.

The theatre was 100ft, deep from north to south. The main entrance was on Twenty-third Street, with another entrance on Sixth Avenue. The building was of granite in the Renaissance. The auditorium consisted of parquet, orchestra circle, balcony, second gallery, amphitheatre and five proscenium boxes each side, with a seating capacity of 1,807, and standing room for at least 350 more. It was of horseshoe form. The musicians were placed below the front of the stage, and under the level of the main floor. The distance from the footlights to the rear wall was 55ft, and the stage 76ft, wide. An entire scene could be sunk out of sight. Not a single nall was used in the flooring of the stage, as it was secured by screws. Instead of ropes, stout wire cables were used. An auction sale for the choice of seats took place at Irving Hall Jan. 25. Gov. Hofman took the lowest box on the right, and Mayor Oakey Hall that on the left. The seats were principally bought up by ticket speculators. Those genilemen were permitted to purchase all the tickets they wanted to, and refused to permit them to sell in front of the house. The consequence was that on the second night the house was half empty, though every seat in it had been sold.

Edwin Booth was proprietor and manager; John Henry Magonigle, business manager; Joseph A. Booth, treasurer; Mark Smith Sr., stage manager; Edward Mollenhauer, musical director. The opening occurred Feb. 3, 1869, with "The Star Spangled Banner" by the orchestra, after which Edwin Booth, in evening costume, said:

LADIES AND GRATLEMEN.—Before the curtain rises I wish to avail myself of the privilege of a hest in bidding you all welcome to wow was had as a well as well well as the stage of a hest in bidding you all welcome to wow was hones.

Great attention was paid by Edwin Booth to the siage decoration and costumes. In the second act, the house of Juliet measured sixty feet in height, and had two balconies, one above the other. Two trees measured fifty and sixty feet. For the "loggia" scene in the third act was a line of connected arches of great height, extending backwards to the full depth of the stage; these flanked a wide court yard, in which the tops of trees were visible, suggesting the idea of depth. Romeo's ladder was thrown over the balustrade of a balcony, of this solidly constructed house. The "loggia scene" employed fifty men to set and to draw it above the files.

A NUMBER of printing firms which make a specialty of preparing material for theatrical companies have formed a combination for mutual protection. These firms have decided that they will do no business with a man who owes one of their number any money. All the firms have agreed to keep one another informed of the managers who are in their debt. The combination is in the line of a trust, and takes in a number of big firms.

WORTH'S MUSEUM.—Notwithstanding the intense heat of the week past, business continues upon a paying basis here, and the interior has, by actual test, been proven to be of a cooler temperature than the adjacent streets. To those patrons who visit here during the heated term, Manager Worth is bound to do everything to conduce to their comfort, and nothing has; been neglected in that respect. The museum attractions for this week are: Alex. M. Coleman, spotted man; Fred J. Fields, dislocationist; Tony White, shadowgraphist; Ghullem Housseim, Persian wizard; Nayo, Guatamalian dwarf, and Prof. Worth's instructive lectures upon rare objects of art and nature. The stage people are: W. L. Marsh, Flora Mitchell, Manning and Wolley, Billy Clayton and Harry Miller.

CHARLES LEORARD FLETCHER, proprietor and director of Proctor's Theatre School of Acting, has established in connection with that school a dramatic agency. The plans are to register the names of actors who are well established in the profession, and playwrights well known and otherwise. The dramatists who are registered will be privileged by having their plays, which are accepted, given trial productions by a competent company composed of such registered actors who are disengaged, assisted by the advanced pupils of the school. Several plays have already been accepted, and a series of trial productions will be inaugurated Sept. 15, at 17 octor's Twenty-third Street Theatre.

Koster & Bial's.—"Pocahontas," the burlesque now running at Koster & Bial's, will be replaced in two weeks with a French plece, entitled "A Village Wedding," in which Dufour and Hartley will have the leading parts. Nada Reyval, the electric girl, has added new effects to her novel act. Dagmar and De Celle, vocalists, are seen in new specialities, and the Bros. Borani continue to give their marvelous acrobatic feats. The attendance has been good during the heated term.

Proctorol's Theatrag.—"The Face in the Moonlight," the play in which Robert Mantell will open fite season at this house, is a UNION SQUARE THEATRE.—Claries A. Gardner's inauguration of the preliminary season, in "fatherland," occasioned a pilgrimage of a large number of first nighters to witness the performance of the popular comedian. A house crowded to the doors took advantage of the cool weather to give the new piece a beilting send off. The play has nothing specially novel in its construction as to plot and accessories, for Mr. Gardner has retained many features introduced by him during previous years. The story of "Fatherland" is very simple, and was given in full in The Cliptes several seasons ago, when the play was first acted. Henry Stafford had murdered his foster brother in America, and followed his widow, who had taken refuge with her child in Tyrol, to that country. There he tries to induce her to marry him, in order to obtain control of her wealth. As she refuses, he steals her child, and, threatening to kill the girl, he nearly succeeds in making the mother accede to his wish, when, during his absence, she reveals his purpose to Herman Leopold, the guide, whom she loves, and he, at the head of the villagers, compels Henry Stafford to deliver up the child. At the end stantond is arrested for the murder. Mr. Gardner as Herman Leopold, the guide, was loudy applauded on his appearance, and acted the part of the joily Tyrolean in his well known way. His songs, several of which are new, were sung by him in spiendid voice and with telling effect. He introduces in the course of the play "Gesundheit," "The Chamois Hunter," "Pretty Bobolink," "Bubble Song." "German Swell" and acted from stage fright and beat a howling retreat. The company is

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—Monday night, Aug. 1, marked the American debutat this house of Birdie Brightling, an English concert half singer, and the Detroit Bros., a clever team of athletes. The former Brightling, an English concert hall singer, and the betrott Bross, a clever team of athletes. The former is a slender girl with a fair singing voice, who, perhaps will be entitled to a more favorable judgment regarding her merits when her palpable nervousness consequent upon her first appearance amid strange surroundings shall have ceased to affect her work. She first gave a "Yodle" song, which was fairly well rendered, then a banjo solo, and lastly a few steps in dancing. Her reception was a kindly one, and her future appearance may cause her to become a metropoitan favorite. The Detroit Bros, made the strongest kind of a hit, and well did they deserve it. Their act consisted of a series of graceful posturings, pirouettes, summersaults, etc. But it is their wonderful balancing feats and their ascent and descent from a pyramid of chairs which entitle them to rank as among the best in their line ever seen here. They were constantly applauded during their act, and were recalled to bow their acknowledgments of a cordial, and well deserved reception. The balance of the bill contained the nances of the following well known performers: Layman, George E. Austen, the Dillons, Capitola Forrest, Murray and Alden, Boomie Thornton, San Dearin, and Harding and Ar the Madison Square Roof Garden some changes Arthe Madison Square Roof Garden some changes are noted in this week's bill. The thrumming of the Tipaldi Mandoin Orchestra has given way to Signund Hernstein's Orchestra. Brooks and Denton, banjoists, have retired, and Mile. Theo, in a clever musical act, is a new feature. Her performances upon several musical instruments were skillful, and her reception was cordial. Martin Julian reappeared with his sister, Rose, in their acrobatic act, having recovered from his illness. Damrosch's Orchestra occupied the roof garden on Sunday night, July Sl, for the second time.

This NATIONAL CONNENTION of Theatrical Protective Unions was begun Aug. I. at Clarendon Hall. John Gallacher, of Pitti-burg, wase'ected chairman. Among the delegates there were liarry Coleman, of New York, Elward Kelly, of Chinar, was ected chairman. Among the delegates there were liarry Coleman, of New York. Elward Kelly, of China (the Jacobs and Jangano 18). It was decided not to organize any for the present, because wages differ in dillerent cities. It was, however, agreed to form an affidiation among the various unions to govern members when with traveling theatrical companies. A special committee was appointed to draft a set of ries which will be submitted to the various unions. It was further agreed that the New York schedule of wages should govern carpenters, gasmen, electricians, property men and stage hands when on the road. The New York rates are as follow: For machinist, $30 a week, and when or he road, $20; property man and assistant, $30; property men and stage hands when on the road assistant $20; electrician or gasman, $20; and his assistant. $20; electrician or gasman, $20; and his assistant. $20; electrician or gasman, $20; and his assistant and Sunday werk, and Sunday work, and Sunday work, and Sunday work, and Sunday to the first sunday and manager of the theatre ever since it opened, sold all his slock to Elliott Zborowsk already a member of the com:any, for $107,000. Mr. Zborowski sold half of this to T. Hanry French, the third member of the company, and manager of the Grand Opers House and the Garden Theatre, for $35,000. Mr. Sanger says at the time Mr. French tried to restrain him by an injunction from selling his shares to Mr. Zborowski he offered one half to Mr. French's lawyer for $50,000, but the offere was refused. Mr. Sanger at once resigned the presidency of the Broadway Theatre Co., and Mr. French was elected to the place. Mr. Sanger, however, will continue to receive his salary as president till Aug. 16. Mr. Zborowski will furnish Mr. Sanger with offices in another building till his new theatre, the Empire is finished. Work on the Empire Theatre, in which Al Hayman is a partner with Mr. Sanger, is going on rapidly. Mr. Zborowski salled for Europe two days after the conclusion of the sale, and it is said that be and Mr. French propose to turn the Broadway into an JULIUS P. WITMARK, on Ang. Sails on the Sound.

The opening of the elegant new club house of the Shelter Island Yacht Club, on Monday, July 25, was celebrated by the club holding their first regatta of the season, for handsome silver trophies. There were sixteen starters, and the only cause for fault finding was that the wind was provokingly light during the run to the outer mark. After the yachts were headed homeward, however, a nice breeze sprung up, and good speed was attained, putting the growling amateur sailors in good humor again. The boats were classified as follow:

First class boats—Mienie Rogers, Louis Stearns; Cunardo J. Le Routillier; Yolande, J. Cassidy; Obycesa, William Bradley; Figeon, William Westlake; Gypsy Queen, Frank Belden; Golden Rod, Robert B. Lynch.

Scon: class—Curlew, J. Nitche; Hermes, C. H. Otis; Norman, A. R. Fish; Lorell, H. L. Cox; Mendota, J. Cattledge. celebrated by the club holding their first regatta of Nacon: class—Curlew, J. Nitchie; Hermes, C. H. Otis; Norman, A. R. Fish; Lorell, H. L. Cox; Mendota, J. Cattledge.

Third class—Nip and Tuck, William Allisen Brown; Rattler, Thomas A. Howell; Alert, Harvey B. Henderson; Yokes J. H. Cowperthwait.

The course was a triangular one, extending twice over a route from off the club house to Euroy No. 3, off Bay Beach, then to Sheepshead Buoy and return to the starting point. The Figeon was first home, in 2h. 37m., Yolande second, in 2h. 30m. 32s. With the Mendota recond, in 2h. 47m. 17s. No decision was made as to the winner of the third class. The winner of the best two in three races will take the prize in each class.

CHAMPION AMATEUR OARSMEN.

Saratoga Lake the Scene of Some Memorable Rowing Contests.— Grand Eight Oared Race.

(SPECIALLY REPORTED FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.)
For the first time in a number of years the annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen of America was held on Saratoga Lake, on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 26, 27. More than ever before the regatta this year was a concentration of the best amateur rowing talent of all parts of the country, while the number of entries of skilled oars country, while the humor of the humor surpassed that received in any previous year since the association was organized. Taken as a whole, the racing was better than in most former regattas held by the organization, too, and the people who attended the affair received a more satisfactory return for their money. In the matter of attendance, however, the regatta of last week was about on par with the last previous similar event decided on the Saratoga course. The Saratoga Athletic As-sociation, under whose auspices the regatia was held, in anticipation of a large influx of strangers had erected a commodious grand standsome distance below the old Lake House landing, and opposite the starting and finishing point of all but the eight oared races. Probably fifty persons were on the stand on the opening day, while a couple of hundred were baked by the scorching rays of Old Sol on the second day of the meeting. The majority preferred to loll about on the grass, beneath the spreading branches of the trees that cover the west bank of the lake, and as quite as unobstructed a view of the races could be obtained from those points of vantage as from the exposed stand, they must be commended for the wisdom displayed in choosing the grassy banks for their points of observation. All told, there was probably five hundred people present on the first day, and double that number on the second, when the finals and other more important races came off.

Heretofore, when rowing carnivals have been held on this lake, it has been customary to start the events about 11 A. M., thus enabling the officials to complete the programme in time for the spectators to return to town for dinner. For some reason the managers of this year's regatta were induced to change the starting hour to three e'clock in the afternoon, presumably with a view to affording the public an opportunity to attend both the horse public an opportunity to attend both the horse races and the regatta. The change was not a wise one. In the first place the lake is, nineteen days out of twenty, in better condition for rowing in the morning than it is in the afternoon, and the alteration in time is liable to not only entail delay and postponement, but it is almost certain to keep the speciators at the lake so long that they cannot make the journey to town until after dark. Such was the experience of those who visited the lake on either day last week. Had the starting time been fixed at the same hour as in former years the races could have been worked off in good season and without annoying delays, such as the people were then subjected to, and which cannot conduce to the success of future regattas there. Saratogs Lake is subject to frequent stiff breezes, and whether they come from the West, East or South, the winds are pretty sure to disturb the surface of the lake to an extent not favorable for shell boat rowing. The water on both mornings last week was in magnificent condition, as it almost always is at that time of day, and we feel certain that the regatta committee of the association in future years, should the regatta be held at the same place, will consult their own interests, as well as that of the oarsmen and the general public, by returning to the old plan of bringing off the races during the foremoon.

Another drawback to the financial success of the affair was the long spell of unprecedentedly hot weather, the mercury dancing about at the top notch just at the hour when the races were announced to start, and people preferred to remain at home, en dishabille, to subjecting themselves to a baking in store clothes. The lateness of the heur at which the races were concluded on Wednesday also prevented a number of oarsmen and others from getting away from Saratoga by the early evening trains, as desired, thereby involving extra expense which many could ill aford. All those matters are deserving of careful consideration, and it is to be to his victory over such experts as Hedley, Caffey and Hawkins, who are essentially smooth water scullers.

The wind was southwest on the opening day, and at the time fixed for the start the lake was well covered with white caps in its more exposed portion, necessitating a provoking delay of over two hours, when the surface of the water had flattened considerably, but hardly sufficient for the scullers and doubles to do their best work. On the second day the wind came from the South, and soon after noon the water began to kick up, and prior to the starting of the eights it was tolerably rough. The last event of the regatts, the race for senior eight oared crews, was the more important feature of the programme, and no better contest was ever witnessed than the battle between the New York Athletic Club and Manhaitan Athletic Club crews.

There is great rivalry between these clubs in rowing, as in other sports, and both clubs had large delegations at the lake to witness the contest and encourage the oarsmen; incidentally, also, to wager their surplus cash on the result of the test of relative ability. The struggle was waged in most determined fashion, and the victory of the "Chippies," by which name the New Yorks are familiarly known, was well earned, while there was nothing but praise for the conquered crew, who will endeavor on a future occasion to reverse the verdict then rendered, for the race cannot be regarded as entirely conclusive as to the relative powers of the rival crews.

The experiment of having turning races instead of straightaway, as heretofore, cannot be regarded as entirely actisfactory after the experience of last week, when so many fouls marked and spoiled the races between doubles, pairs and fours, and it is doubtful if the association will conclude to repeat the experiment. Amateur crews are not schooled in turning races, especially over so short a distance, besides which the fouling was largely contributed to by the fact that the buoys were placed entirely too close together. In professional match races the regulation distance apart of turning stakehoats is twenty-five yards, and if the course will not admit of such an allowance, where five or six crews row in one heat, then the better plan would be to have the events straightaway, as before. Of course races rowed with a turn afford the spectators a better opportunity to see the contests, but in championship regattas the wishes and interests of the competing oaramen should take precedence of all other considerations. After all, the finish of a race is what the average spectator wants most to see, and he can have that gratification as well in straightaway contests as those rowed with a turn, while the dangers of fouling and other accidents are materially lessened. In view, therefore, of the frequent collisions last week, which more or less affected the result of the different events, it is probable that the Association, at its next regular meeting, will decide to return to straightaway racing. The officials of the regatta were as follow: Referee, Walter Stumpson; judge at the finish, W. Howard Gibson; judges at turn, H. M. Horton, A. C. Dowling and D. Koch; timekeepers, J. H. Abeel Jr., W. A. Littlejohn and James P. Fox; starter Theodore Van Raden; clerk of the course, R. H. Peiton. The prizes for the various events were presented by the Saratoga Athletic Association, and were distributed publicly after the regatta. Full details of the races appear below:

Senior Single Sculls.

Edwin Hedley, Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, Pa. 1
Fred Hawkins, Manhattan Athleite Club, N. V. Cliv. 2
Charles E. Bulger, Mutual Boat Club, Albany, N. V. 1
W. S. McDowell, Faragut Boat Club, Albany, N. V. 1
H. W. Janssen, Staten Island Athletic Club. 5
They got away to a capital start, Bulger being a a bit the quickest in dipping his sculls, and breaking the line, Janssen following. A quarter mile down the lake these two were bow and bow, with Hedley next, close up, Hawkins fourth. At the half mile Hedley and Hawkins were fighting for the lead, which directly the former gained, Hawkins having been bothered somewhat by McDowell, who had gone out of his course and got in dangerous proximity to the New Yorker. The pair drew away from the others, and, as had been expected, the race was thereafter between them. They continued to row in close company to the turning tuogs, Hedley reaching his first, but making a bungling turn, which enabled Hawkins to straighten first for home, while both Bulger and Janssen were quicker in rounding than the Vesper representative. When the latter did get straightened out, however, he went for Hawkins with a tremendous spurt, rapidly overhauled him, and at the mile point had rezained his advantage, Bulger rowing third and McDowell fourth, Janssen done for. Thus the contest went on, Hedley having a length and a half the best of it at the mile and a quarter. On the closing quarter the Cherry Diamond crack made a well sustained spurt, which enabled him to cut down the distance between his bow and the stern of the leading boat, Hedley plying his sculls just fast enough to keep in front, and eventually winning by half a length, in 10m. 35s. Hawkins second, in 10m. 35s. It was a beautiful finish, and the spectators on the grand stand and hill slopes applanded liberally. Bulger led McDowell by five lengths.

Willam Caffery, Crescent Boat Club, Boston, Mass... I E. A. Thompson, Argonaut Boat Club, Toronto, Can. 0
The Crescent sculler was a red hot favorite over the others, and he caught the w grip on the water at the signal, and drove his shell slightly ahead of the line, Bergin and Ryan followgrip on the water at the signal, and drove his shell slightly ahead of the line, Bergin and Ryan following, with Hawkins getting off rather slowly. At the quarter the spurting stroke pulled by Bergin placed him in the van, while Hawkins advanced to third position, rowing hard and fast, with Ryan and Cafrey fighting for fourth place. It was already apparent that the company outclassed Bulger and Thompson, who gradually dropped to the rear. It was a splendid struggle between the others up to the turning point, which Ryan, with a telling spurt, reached first, followed immediately by Hedley, both going around at the same time, but kyan first heading his craft for home. Caffrey got around next, with Hawkins fourth, going about slowly. A fine struggle ensued, but Ryan maintained his advantage, despite the desperate efforts of Hedley and Caffrey, Hawkins now falling back. This was the order to the finish line, Ryan landing the race by two and a half lengths from Hedley, in 10m. 24s.; Hedley's time, 10m. 35s.; Caffrey's, 10m. 45s., Hawkins snatching fourth position from Bergin when nearing the line.

speed, and ae passed ae mile point in advance, coughlin second, Matthews third, and Berry struggling in the rear. Lehaney maintained his advance; lill the end, being three good lengths ahead of Coughlin when the flag fell, while the Texan had dropped back to last place. Time of winner, 10m. 42 is.; Coughlin's, 11m. Time at turn, 5m. 7s. It is worthy of remark that Matthews made a gallant struggle, and the display he gave satisfied all that, at and well, he would beat the field that was opposed to him on this occasion. As it was, he had not been in a boat for four days previous to the afternoon he rowed the race, having been confined to the house by sickness during that time, and his friends had no idea that he would start in the race in the condition he was in. He rowed the great race he did upon a plenitful supply of clear grit, and he well deserved the hearty cheers that were given him at the close of the contest. Matthews is yet a youth, and we may expect to hear good reports of him hereafter. Everyboody had words of praise for him, as well as sympathy for a man who, after traveling so far to test his skill and stamina against the crack sculiers of the North and East, should thus have his chances destroyed.

Charles Barrett, St. Joseph Boat Club, St. Jos., No... 3
There is no room for detailed description in this race, for the reason that Cady quickly dashed to the fore, and, outclassing his opponents, he easily maintained his advantage, increasing it at will, and ultimately sculling leisurely across the line over a dozen lengths to the good. It was a close race between Blackington and Barrett to the half distance, where they were on even terms, but Barrett turned his buoy from left to right, instead of vice versa, and had to go back and turn the right way. This made the remainder of the race a procession, with Blackington a score of lengths in advance of Barrett at the line. Blackington is a big, broad shouldered, powerfully built man, but he is a slow striker, besides having a lot of weight to pull. Winner's time, Hm.; Blackington's, Hm. 52s. Time at turn, 5m. 14s.

The absence of J. J. Ryan and Ed. Durnan, of the Sunnysides, from the list of starters detracted considerably from the interest taken in this event when the entry list was first made public, and Ryan was about as mad as they make Canucks when the exclusion of Durnan from the regatta threw out their entry, for he was extremely confident that the event would have fallen to himself and mate. Catching the water first, the Varunas dashed to the front, and a sinew testing contest ensued between them and the Albany double right up to the turn, with the Vespers sticking close to them and the Dempseys not far behind, but unable to keep pace with the others.
The Varunas held their own by the hardest kind of rowing, and they and the Albanys arrived at the buoys together, the Brooklyns commencing to turn a shade before the Albanians, and having a little the best of it upon straightening out. Parke and Hedley were in hot pursuit of them, while the New Yorkers were evidently sure holders of the lastplace. The struggle home was a grand sight to see.
The Varuna double put forth all their strength in the effort to maintain their position, but the Vesper boys spurted nearly all the way up the lake, and at last they fairly rowed Quill and Freeth down, beating them to the line by about a length, with the Albanys third and the New York Athletic bringing up the rear. Winning time, ym. 24s.; Varuna's, 9m.

The same cause that operated injunously to the preceding event completely spoiled the race for senior fours. After a hot race up to the buoys, the Modocs being smarter than their opponents in getting under way, and leading to the turn by a length, a bad foul occurred between them and the Atlantas, who came to a stop, while the other crews, which had been close together, got around their stakes and started for the finish. The referee, however, ordered them all to return, and, as given power to do by the laws of boating, he aligned the crews at the haif distance and sent them off on a straightaway race home, thus avoiding any more their stakes and started for the finish. The referee, however, ordered them all to return, and, as given power to do by the laws of boating, he aligned the crews at the half distance and sent them off on a straightaway race home, thus avoiding any more trouble with badly placed buoys. The Argonauis obtained slightly the best of a beautiful start, and the crews went off down the lake, now as smooth as a mirror, at great speed. The order at the quarter mile was Argonaui, Wyandotte, Atalanta, Modoc, Fairmonnt and Wolverine. A quarter mile further along the Wyandottes had gained the lead, the Argonauis second, the Atalantas still third, and the others as they were. The Modocs spurted strong during the last quarter, and as the Atalantas and Argonauis came together and stopped just before reaching the line, the Modocs got on even terms with the Wyandottes, and thus they crossed. The time for the run up the lake was 4m. 31s., and for the row back 4m. 3s., a comparison of which time will give an idea of the strength of the south wind which the oarsmen had to contend with while rowing up the lake. The referee ordered the race to be rowed over the following morning, the dead heaters and the fouled Argonauis to start. The water was in capital condition when the flag fell to an excellent start, neither crew having any advantage. All were hitting the water at thirty-sight strokes to the minute, and the boats sped rapidly up the lake, with the referee's puffy launch in not very close pursuit, although it was not broadside on at the time of the signal, as the slow craft had been several times during the previous two days. The Wyandottes had a shade the better of their special rivals, the Modocs, at the end of a quarter mile, and this they increased almost to a length at the half mile, the other crews on nearly even terms. There was no change to the turn, the Wyandottes getting around tirs, followed by the Modocs, lapped by the Astorias. Once headed for home the two Western fours settled down to business with all seriousness, greater power on the starboard side of the shell baffing the efforts of the energetic coxwain to keep the boat rightly pointed. She constantly sheered off towards the Everetts, and as often as the Dauntiess boys came uncomfortably close the Everett coxwain steered away from them. Finally the New Yorkers got so far over toward the west shore that they were obliged to call a halt until they got straightened out properly, and then they wont ahead preserving a remarkably good course to the finish. Meanwhile the Everetts had gone on about their business, winning in 9th 51-53, the Dauntless' time being 9th 41s. Previously to the start the Dauntless crew protested the Everetts, claiming that there were one or more professionals in the eight. The Dauntless boys would probably have won the race had they not been placed at a disadvantage, as they displayed decidedly the better carsmanship. The crew is very light, however, and extra beef sometimes tells in a boat race, as in other branches of sport where strength and staying power are required. Senior Eight Oared Shells.

The Malias, pulling a quick stroke of 43 to the minute, went off with the lead, but they were quickly overhauled by both of the other crews, the Maniatans, striking at the rate of 41 to the munute, taking the lead and being in front at the quarter mile, where the Malias were second, and the New York Athletics third, rowing steadily and strongly, without any sign of flury or unwonted excitement, a stroke of but thirty-six to the minute. At the half mile and the three quarters the positions remained without change, the crews going very fast and thoroughly testing the steaming abilities of the heavy craft that served as the judges' and press boat, and which was unable to keep within speaking distance of the competing oarsmen. Before a mile had been compassed the Malias fell back, their rapid rate of pulling having told its inevitable tale. The Manhattans now had an advantage of half a length over the New Yorks, who keep pegging away at the same stroke with which they started, and pretty soon it began to make its power felt. The Mercury foot oarsmen began to creep up on the tiring Manhattans inch by inch, and at about a quarter of a mile from the goal the nose of their craft showed ahead of the Manhattans bow. From there to the finish line the struggle was muscle breaking, the oarsmen redoubling their exertions and the stroke being quickened in both boats. Inder the pressure the New Yorks continued to steadily, though slowly gain on their rivals, whom they beat to the line by less than a length, in 7m. 56s. The Malias' time was miles. Fastest Steamship Time.

The inman Line Steamship City of Paris is entitled to carry the horns. She arrived at this port on Wed nesday morning, July 27, having made the passage nesday morning, July 27, having made the passage from Queenstown, Ire., to Sandy Hook Lightship in five days, flifteen hours and fifty-eight minutes. This was faster time than was ever previously made by any ocean liner between those ports, the best previous record being that of the steamer Teutonic, of the White Star Line, which was 6d. 16h. 31m. The average run of the City of Paris for every twenty-four hours of the trip was 511 knots, while her best hourly average for one day was 21.02 knots, and her hourly average for the voyage was 20.48 knots. The hourly average of the Teutonic on the trip referred to was 29.34, and the best previous average 20.41, by the Majestic, of the White Star Line. The log shows the following runs daily: Pirst, 478 knots; second, 501; third, 519; fourth, 594; fifth; 529; sixth, short day, 263. Thus it will be seen that the City of Paris' best day's run, 520 knots, beat that of the Teutonic by three knots. The City of Paris is to fly the American flag, and Capt Watkins will shortly apply for a master's certificate in the American merchant service.

The ANNIAL RACE for the five hundred yards amateur swimming championship of England took place at the Tunbridge Wells Batha, London, on the evening of July 16. There were four statters, with W. Evans, champion, the favorite, and he justified the confidence reposed in him by winning easily in 7m. 24s. (S. B. Smart second, W. G. Stratton third, W. Frickett fourth. The winner thus became the permanent owner of the championship at 100, 220 and sily yards.

The Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union held their initial swimming championship meet ing on Saturday, July 30, on the upper Schuylkill River, under the auspices of the Philadelphia Amateur Swimming Club. The river is very low at this time of year, and the water was almost dead. From the summary below it will be seen that both events forming the programme were won by Arthur T. Kenney in the best time recorded in this country in still water. A summary follows:

One hundred pards—Arthur Thomas Kenney, P. A. S. C., first by two yards, im. 9s.; T. Robert Jenkins. Neptune Boat Club, Baltimore, second; Charles Linseed, P. A. S. C., third.

One mile—A. T. Kenney first, 27m. 6%s.; Earnest Crowther and Robert Costello, P. A. S. C., second and third respectively. Kenney's time breaks the American record of 32m. 6%s., made by Alexander Mefferts, Sept. 9, 1889, at Locust Grove, L. 1.

THE ANNUAL RACE for the Wingfield Sculls and the amateur championahip of the Thames River, England, took place on July 18, over the usual course, from Putney Bridge to the Ship at Mortlake, a distance of four and a quarter miles. There were but three starters, and the race resuited in the success of Vivian Nickalis, a younger brother of the last holder of the trophy. He won by over three lengths, in 25m. 40s., the wind and tide contributing to the fast time. G. E. B. Kennedy was second, and W. P. Cumming third. The winner belongs to the Oxford University Boat Club.

THE RING.

Death of "Farmer" Bennett.

The Grow subreased all years the within severement of the control of John L. Sullivan continues steadily at work at Canoe Place Inn, on Long Island, and, although he is visited by numerous persons, friends and those curious to get a look at the eminent boxer, it does not interfere in the least with his work of preparation. He gives all callers a pleasant welcome, and he is not averse to allowing them to witness his work. John does not indulge in boxing exercise with Jack Ashton or anyone else, condining his fistic exercise to punching the leather ball, in which act he wears diagrelies algoves. His weight had been reduced to 2015 on Saturday morning, July 30, and Trainer Phil Casey expects to have an easy task in bringing the big fellow's weight down to 2005. As which figure he intends to enter the ring. Sull as an interference of the good effects of the hard work he has performed, not always without grumbling, for it is the sort of labor that a man of Sully's temperament does not relish, and he has repeatedly declared since he commenced work that he would never go through a course of training again. He is bound to get himself just right this time, however, so that there may be no excuse in case he should get the tarred end of the stick on Sept. 7, and also that he may be physically able to accomplish the task which he has in all confidence undertaken. Good reports come from the random quarters of Jim Corbett at Asbury Park. He does his work cheerfully and eye tematically, under the said drays of a man who was more willing than the Californian, whose sole aim appears to be to perfect his physical condition. He knows the sort of job he has undertaken, and, while he manifests the ulmost confidence in his ability to gain the victory, he know that without he should be absolutely as fit as man can be made he will have no show with the big Bottonian, ciever and active though he may be refused that nothing may in the interim occur to operate to the disadvantage of either man.

Pritchard's Backers' Mistake.

The refusal of Ted Pritchard's backers to allow him to come to this country looks singularly unsportsmanike. Were they in position to say that an offer as liberal as that made by the Olympic Club could be secured for these same boxers in England, they might with some show of remon and common sense derand that Pritchard should do all his fighting in England; but, as a matter of fact, the British public will not pay as much, or anything like as much, for the contest as will the American public, through the medium of the Olympic Club, and as long as this state of affairs continues Englishmen will be compelled to come to this country whenever they wish to see a first class contest that partakes in any way of an international character. Pritchard's backers can never hope to see him win any thing resembling a reputation worth of Campiec Liberting Presembling a reputation worth of Campiec Liberting Presembling a reputation worth of Campiec Liberting Presembling a reputation where boxing comes more nearly being respectable than anywhere else under the sun.

Dixon and Skelly.

A match has at last been arranged between George Dixon, the colored boxer, and Jack Skelly, ex amateur champion, for a purse of $7.50\text{A}\text{.}$ which will be decided under the auspices of the Olympic Club, of New Orleans, on the date originally set spart for the fight between Bob Fitzsimonos and Ted Pritchard, and later for the Australian and Jack O'Brien, both of which matches tell through, the blame for which is solely with the Englishmen. Skelly left for New Orleans on Saturday, July 30, in company with Captain Williams, the representative of the club. "Kid" Hogan and Dan Gallagher. He will train at or near Bay St. Louis, the favorite spot for pugilists when getting ready for a game of muckles. Jack McAulife arrived in the metropolis from his training quarters at Handen, Ms., last week, and started for New and will putton thame train. He looks very well, indeed will putton thame train. A dispatch from Owaha, Neb., dated July 31, says: "At the South omaha Athietic Club's rooms last night two thousand persons saw a dnish fight for a purse of $3.00 be ween from y dyan, of Chicago, and Jack Wilks, of St. Louis. Fach may weighed 14th. Jimmy Lindsay, of Omaha, had "Farmer" Burns seconded Ryan, while Wilks was looked after by Jack Davis, of Omaha, Steve Millard and Tom Kelly, of St. Louis. Frank Farmalee was referee. From the start to the seventh round it was a punishing fight, both men doing great execution. From the seventhy to the seventeenth round the was punishing fight, both men doing great execution. From the seventhy to the seventeenth round, however, Ryan played with his man. In the saventeenth round, however, Ryan played with his man. In the saventeenth round, however, Ryan seemed to be strong while Wilks was weat. The club was backling Wilks, and when the ringloaders as they were to lose their money that Capied. The Ryan can were indignant and promised to make it interesting for the cub. Referee Farmalee declared the fight a draw.

Needham Knocked Out.

The glove contest between Danny Needham, of St. Paul, Minn., and George Dawson, the lightweight champion of Australia, for a purse of $2,000, offered by the California Athletic Club, came off at the by the California Athletic Club, came off at the headquarters of that organization in San Francisco on Tuesday evening, July 26, and was witnessed by about seven thousand persons. Needham opened the fight vigorously, but Dawson came back in such energetic style that the first five rounds were about even, although Dawson was nearly floored in the second round by a victous right hander. From the sixth to the twelfth round the fight went Needbam's way, he battering the Australian all over the ring, and drawing blood from him in streams. In the thirteenth Dawson caught it hard on the nose and seemed to be growing weaker. In the fifteenth Dawson fought desperately, twice sending Needham to the floor, and nearly knocking him ont. The sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth rounds were fought slowly, both men being winded. In the twenty-eighth Needham fell six times, more because of weakness than of blows. In the twenty-ninth he was knocked out with a hard smash on the jaw.

A Knock Out Battle.

Tom King, of Cincinnati, O., and Billy McAbee, who bails from Chicago, Ill., fought with gloves to a finish at a spot on the Indiana beach, just over the State line, on Friday morning, July 29. A couple of hundred sports went by steamer to the spot from Chlosgo, arriving about daylight. A ring was heartly pitched, and the men stepped in to battle for the stakes of $250 a side. McAbee had decidedly the best of the mill for the first four rounds, but after that seemed to lose his head under the punishment he was receiving. In the beginning of the flifth round King knocked the Chicagoan down and almost out. From that time until the night round King had matters all his own way and forced the fighting. Coming up for the inith round King landed his left on McAbee's stomach, and following up his advatage with the right found the point of the Chicagoan's jaw, knocking him down and out.

FAIRS FOR 1892.

Following our annual custom, we present a list of fairs for the coming Fall. The clashing of dates, Tairs for the coming rail. The classing of dates, the frequent changes and practical impossibility of collecting all the material combine to make a list of this kind only approximately correct; nevertheless, those fairs we record here, made up from The American Agriculturist's list, will be found useful to many classes of showmen who have not yet arranged their routes for the season of 1892-3. The letters preceding dates stand for the months, as A. is that last indicated.

W. WRAY MORGAN JR., London.—Accept our thanks for the brochure, which we gladly notice.

Bro. CHARLICK, Adelaide.—Thank you for the advance slip, which we utilise.

CHAR. DEVIDE, City.—The matter has been fully explained from The World office. The report from our once mutual chess friend is a saddening one.

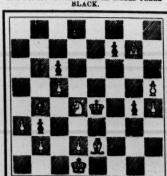

E. G. JORDAN, City.—Please consider the "apologies" omitted; the ample explanation is entirely satisfactory. We can imagine that "Judge" Hazelton laughed as he pronounced that picture a very "counterfeit presentment" of blusself.

THE DRENDEN INTERNATIONAL—We hear, at the last moment, that Mr. Bird and Herr Lasker have been offered such inducements to play a match at Newcastle-on-Tyne that they may probably hie themselves to the banks of the "coaly Tyne" instead of the "handsomest capital in Europe."

an open file with a Rook, its principle would have been justifiable; but, as the R is afterwards placed on another file, the move is valueless.

(f) By this unaccountable loss of time his opponent is enabled to obtain an irresistible attack on the king's side. This unfortunate Rook, moreover, can be come to the assistance of his besieged soverning of all of the main army that can get home at all arrive just in time to see their citadel taken.

A TINKLY WORK.—W. W. Morgan Jr., of Fleet House, Bulver Road, New Barnet, has just issued the tenth book of that well known excellent series, "Morgan's shilling Chess Library" This volume contested between Steinitz and Tchigorin in their five several enceunters. First: The Vienna international in 1825, eighteen competitors. Personal score, one each; final score, Tchigorin, 14; Steinitz, 24. Second—The London international in '23, fourteen entrants. Personal score, Steinitz, 0; Tchigorin, 2; final score, Herr T., 16; Mr. S. 19. Personal total, 3 to 1 vs. S. This was the sting that decided Mr. Steinitz, who was most courteously given his choice, to select Herr T. as his antagonist in the first grand match at Havana in '29. Seventeen games were contested—Tchigorin, 64; Steinitz. Then came the match by the first product of Steinitz. Then came the match by the first present year. Twenty-three games resulted—drawn (not counting), 5; Herr T., 8; Mr. S. 10. This gives us a final total of forty-six games, divided thus—drawn, 6; Tchigorin, 19; Steinitz 21. This timely brochure gives the games, in clear, large type, no notes, but one hundred and eighteen illustrative diagrams. To be had in this country at Brentano's, at New York, Chicago and Washington.

In relation to the statement that Von der Ahe had instructed his Philadelphia agent to sign Mulvey. Frank S. Elliott, who is vice president of the Washington Club, recently said: "Mulvey was released by the Philapelphia Club and placed in the pool by them, and subsequently regularly assigned by President Young to the Washington Club, which prevents St. Louis or any other club from signing him. If You der Ahe carries out his plans and signs Mulvey, you can depend upon it that he will be promptly called down for his flagrant violation of the rules. Mulvey will either go to Washington or remain side."

President Hart, of the Chicago Club, in a recent interview is quoted as saying: "The trouble with the game has not been so much with the patronage as with the expenses. For the past few years salaries and other expenses have run up to an extent that the national game could not bear. As these are gradually reduced baseball will again be placed on a paying basis, profitable alike to owners and players. Clubs which have made a poor showing this season seem to forget that they had to fight against eleven of the strongest teams they ever faced. With New York as with Chicago, the strengthening process resulted in temporary failure, but they will both be heard from before the season closes."

The Schnylkill Navy Club's team met the Boston Athletic Association's team July 27, at Philadelphia, and the game was one of the most exciting and desperately fought seen in that vicinity this season. Up to the sixth inning the visitors looked like sure winners, but then the Navy team hit Highlands hard and batted out five runs, which put them in the lead, and they finally won by a score of 9 to 8. The fielding of the Schuylkill Navy team was poor, and it was only Shannon's pitching that saved them from defeat.

The Philadelphia and Cincinnati teams played a championship game July 25, at Philadelphia, without a fielding error.

The Reading team at one time claimed the best local support of any in the Pennsylvania State League. Recently the team struck a losing streak, and the attendance fell off. This had a depressing effect upon the management, and, as a result, the latter, July 27, decided to disband the team.

It required no fewer than thirteen innings to decide the game between the Media and Brandywine teams, played July 27, at Philadelphia, the former then winning by a score of 14 to 13. Bowman, who at one time pitched for the Athletics, of Philadelphia, was in the box for the winners, and struck out en men.

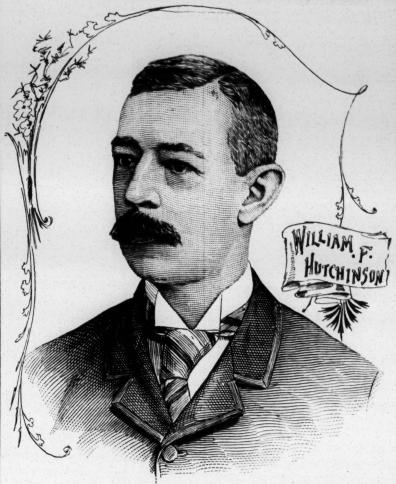

The Boston Athletic Association team defeated the Taconey team July 28, by a score of 7 to 0. J. High-lands pitched for the visitors and held the home leam down to four scattering hits, while he retired twelve of them on strikes.

The Langhorne team defeated the Bristols July 28, at Langhorne, Pa., by a score of 3 to 1. The former made only two safe hits off Smith, the once famous left handed professional pitchr, while the losers were retired with only three scattering hits off Bausewine, a total of only five safe hits being made in the game.

A curious feature about the Seattle-Spokane game of July 14, at Seattle, when the former won by a score of 5 to 4 was that the victors made only sit safe hits against twelve for their opponents.

The Allentowns made seven runs off seven hits July 20, at Allentowns made seven runs off seven hits July 20, at Allentowns under the Allentowns made seven runs off seven hits July 20, at Allentowns defeated the Sirminghams July 19, at Birmingham, by a score of 1 to 0. The Reading Club defeated the Y. M. C. A. team at Pottsville, Pa., July 28, by a score of 7 to 2. The visitors made four safe hits off Hill, while the home team failed to make a safe hit off Flannigan. It is officially stated that Manager Buckenburger has been given full charge of the Pittsburg team, and that Burns, who has been captaining and managing the team, was on July 29 released.

William F. Hutchison, whose portrait is above given, is the leading pitcher of the Chicago Club, and ranks as one of the most effective in that posi-tion in the National League and American Association. He was born Dec. 17, 1861, at New Haven, and first played with an amateur team of Norwich, Ot. Hutchison, however, first came prominently before the public in 1879, when he was the short stop of the Yale College team. He filled the same position for the Yale in lie in 1880 and 1881, when that team won the championship of the American College Association, and he ranked first in fielding in the official averages of the latter season. After graduating at Yale College, Hutchison went West, where for several seasons he played only with amateur teams, then first filling the pitcher's position. His professional career commenced in 1887, when he was engaged by the Des Moines Club, of the Northwestern League, with which he took part in forty-three championship games, filling the pitcher's position in thirty-nine thereof. He remained with the Des Moines Club in 1888, when it was a member of the Western Association. Hutchison pitched in thirty-eight championship games that season, and his great work in the box materially aided the Des tion. He was born Dec. 17, 1861, at New Haven, and

A dispatch from Washington, dated July 28, says:
"President Young, of the National League and American Association, discharged W. S. Wyckoff from his staff of umpires today because of his failure to continue at work in New York. Wyckoff pleaded that he was injured, but Young was satisned that he "weakened." Charles Snyder, of this city, the well known ex-professional, was appoint ed to succeed Wyckoff and officiated in ioday's game. Umpire Mitchell is laid up with a badly injured ankle, and Lynch has been ordered to return to duty."

The first championship season of the Fasters

The first championship season of the Eastern League ended with the games played July 22, the clubs then ranking in the following order: Providence, won 40, lost 25, per cent., 615; Albany, won 40, lost 27, per cent., 597; Rochester, won 42, lost 29, per cent., 592; Elmira, won 34, lost 27, per cent., 557; Troy, won 34, lost 33, per cent., 57; Linghamton, won 25, lost 37, per cent., 400; Ulca, won 24, lost 36, per cent., 400; Buffalo, won 23, lost 38, per cent., 100; Buffalo, won 23, lost 38, per cent.

Pitcher Meakin, of the Rochester Club, finished the first section of the championship season of the Eastern League, far in the lead in the percentage of games won by his team with him in the pitcher's box. He won sixteen games, and lost three. D. Sullivan, of the Providence Club, ranks second, with eight victories and three defeats, and Doran, of Albany, third, with fourteen victories and eight defeats. Fricken leads the Elmira pitchers, Schellerman, Buffale; Inks, Binghamton; Coughlin, Syra-

Association. He was engaged in 1889 by the Chicago Club, of the National League, with which he has since remained, pitching in a majority of its chamsince remained, pitching in a majority of its championship games during the past four seasons, and being its mainstay in that position. Hutchison has pitched in upwards of two hundred championship games for the Chicago Club, ranking high each season in the official pitching averages, especially in 1891, when he led the National League in regard to effectiveness, having then the best percentage of victories. Hutchison pitched in six extra liming games in 1891, five of which, including contests with the Boston team of ten and twelve innings, July 15 and 16, at Chicago, and thirteen and ten innings, Aug. 6 and 7, at Boston, resulted in victories, while no runs were scored by either club in one of eleven innings with the New York team, Aug. 31. He also kept the Philadelphias down to one safe hit Aug. 27, 1891. During the first half of the present championship season, Hutchison has pitched effectively, but has not been properly supported. He shut out, however, the New Yorks and Pittsburgs. He is one of the best fielders in his position, and is also a good batsman, being a very hard hitter at times.

The Salem (Mass.) Club, of the New England League, will have a benefit Aug. 3. Beside a championship game with the Woonsocket Club there will be several competitions among the players, such as a match race between Dorsey of the Salems, and Sweeney of the Woonsockets, 100yds.; race for a prize between members of the Salem team, and another race between members of the Woonsockets, the winners to race one another, and a ball throwing contest.

The Englewood Field Club defeated the Paterson Scientific School nine July 28, at Englewood, N.J., by a score of 24 to 3.

The Camdens defeated the Wynnewood team, of Philadelphia, July 28, at Camden, N. J., by a score of 5 to 2.

A dispatch from Washington, dated July 28, says:

Hawke, who pitched for the St. Louis Club against the Baltimores, on July 28, at Baltimore, pitched for the Pocomoke City Club on Aug. 12, 1891, in a thirteen inning game against the Virginis team, and he retired no fewer than twenty-six of his opponents on strikes. Von der Ahe, of the St. Louis Club, signed Hawke after the game on July 28, and expects that he will prove an effective pitcher.

The first championship season of the Southern League was concluded July 23, with the clubs standing in the following order: Chattanooga, won 62, lost 30, per cents. 697; Birmingham, won 42, lost 39, per cent. .607; Birmingham, won 42, lost 39, per cent. .607; Birmingham, won 42, lost 40, per cent. .512; New Orleans, won 37, lost 46, per cent. .446; Atlanta, won 36, lost 49, per cent. .430, Macon, won 34, lost 47, per cent. .420; Memphis, won 32, lost 46, per cent. .410.

Boston vs. Louisville.

The second game of the new series between these lubs was played July 26, at Boston, the home team then acoring a decisive victory. The Bostons batted Stratton hard and often, Kelly and McCarthy leading in that respect. Jennings played finely for the visitors, making three safe hits and accepting nine chances. The others found it difficult to but Nichols. Basset and Nash excelled in fielding, and Brown made two great assists.

Philadelphia vs. Cincinnati.

The Cincinnati team, weakened by the unavoidable absence of Captain Comiskey, met with a decisive defeat July 26, at Philadelphia. Rhines was batted all over the field during the first five innings, and he then retired, the Philadelphias having made no fewer than twenty-three safe hits off him. Holliday pitched the game out, and was also hit bard. Delehanty did the best batting, his five safe hits embracing a triple and three double baggers. The home team made in all twenty-nine safe hits with a total of forty-five bases. Reilit, while coaching in the first inning, ran down the line from third to home for the purpose of drawing a throw, and for doing so was ordered out of the game. In the sixth inning, however, he came back, and Clements retired to the bench, and Weyhing then relieved Hamilton at left field. Hamilton made several great catches and a splendid throw to the plate.

Brooklyn vs. Pittsburg.

The Brooklyns beat the Pittaburgs, July 28, at Brooklyn, the result then being due to superior fielding. Terry started in to pitch against his old comrades, but, after giving six bases on balls and being batted safely four times in three innings, he retired, and W. Gumbert did fairly well as pitcher

Baltimore vs. Chicago.

The Chicagos scored a victory July 26, at Balti-more, although they were then outbatted and outmore, although they were then outbatted and out-fielded. Vickery prevented the visitors from mak-ing more than five singles, four of which, however, were scored in the first and eighth innings, and aided by wild pitching, brought in three runs. The Baltimores batted Luby freely, but their hits were wide apart, except in the fifth inning, when three men were left on bases, an attempt by Vickery to "bunt" the ball, leading to an easy double play. Van Haltren scored the two runs credited to the home team, and did the best batting, his four safe hits including a triple and a double bagger. Shin-dle, Parrett and bahlen, fielded in fine form.

Washington vs. St Louis.

Washington vs. St. Louis.

Ten innings were necessary to decide the game played July 26, at Washington, the home team then winning by timely hitting at the finish. Breitenstein was very wild, giving nine men bases on balls, two of which forced in two runs. The visitors knocked Killen around in a lively manner, Buckley leading with three safe hits, including a triple and a double bagger. The lead alternated until the seventh inning, when the visitors tied the score. In the tenth inning the home team batted out the two winning runs.

New York vs. Cleveland.

The second game of the new series was played July 26, at the Polo Grounds in this city, the New York team then reversing the result of the preceding contest. Umpire Wyckoff failed to put in an appearance, and Crane, one of the pitchers of the New York team, was substituted, and his decisions gave general satisfaction. The home team won in the fourth inning, when they bunched five safe hits, which, with three errors, helped them to score six runs after two men were out. Cuppy then gave way to Young, off whom only one safe bit was made during the remainder of the contest. Rusic kept the visitors from bunching their hits. Davis drove a liner to centre for a home run in the eighth inning. D. Lyons' third base play was the fielding feature. The second game of the new series was played

Boston vs Cincinnati.

Boston vs. Cincinnati,
A closely contested game took place July 27, at Boston, it being the opening of the new series. Captain Comiskey reappeared with the Cincinnati team. Wild pitching by Chamberlain helped the home team to their first three runs, and good batting gave them two more runs. Vaughn and McPhee made five of the seven safe bits credited to the Cincinnatis, and alone seemed able to but Stivetts, who was spiendidly supported, and McPhee was called out on strikes in the ninth inning and ex-ded the contest with a man left on third. Nash fielded finely at third base, making no fewer than eight assists. Smith also made several spiendid stops and long throws. Tucker accepted no fewer than ninteen chances at first base.

July 27, at Philadelphia. Weyhing was wiid and ineffective, and his poor playing helped the visitors to four of their five runs. Ehret kept the hits well scattered and would have shutout the Philadelphias had it not been for a wiid throw by Shugart. The fielding features were remarkable running catches by liamiliton and Donovan and a spiendid throw from deep centre by Delehanty that cut off a run at the piate.

348 the pennant race. Knell, late of the Washington Club, made his first appearance with the Philadelphia team, and pitched effectively up to the eighth inning, when he was relieved by Carsey. The home team batted Baldwin only in the third and sixth innings, when they bunched seven safe hits and scored a like number of runs. Excessive heat cansed Baldwin to give way to Terry after the sixth inning. Shugart's splendid stop of a hard hit was the fielding feature.

Ehret started in to pitch, but was hit with a pitched ball in the second inning and forced to give way to Gumbert, who did good work in the pitcher's position. The grounds were in poor condition, and prevented several long hits from resulting in home runs. Donovan made his reappearance with the home team, and his batting and fielding were one of the leading features. fortunate in making their hits after the visitor's misplays. The Philadelphias rallied in the eighth and ninth innings, but could not overtake their opponents.

The Optional Stakes, for two year olds, the winner to be sold at auction, was at five furlongs, over the straight course. Uncle Jess won by a length and a half in 1:00. The Raritan Stakes, for three -year olds, at a mile and a quarter, over the inner cir-cular course, was won by Locohatchie. The most exciting finish of the day was in the Navesink Handi-cap, a sweepstakes of one mile and a half, over the outer circular course. The horses which competed were Reckon, Equity, Banquet, Demuth and Stock-ton. The finish was extremely exciting, Banquet winning by a head over Stockton, who was nearly a length before Demuth. The other races were all in-teresting. Summary: year olds, at a mile and a quarter, over the inner cir-

A cool, refreshing breeze made matters delightful for the large crowd assembled 28, and the racing was thoroughly enjoyed. Marty Bergan showed up, in great form and covered himself with glory by riding the winners of the Hollywood Handleap and the Newark Stakes. Tenny, with Garrison up, was the favorite in first race, but even the "Snapper" could not put vime enough in the little swayback to land him a winner. The Hollywood Handleap, for two year old fillies, at three-quarters of a mile, over the straight course, was very interesting, and was won by Lustre by a head, after a spirited race. The Newark Stakes, for three year olds, at one mile, was won by Adelbert by a short head, through the masterly riding of Bergen. Summary.

THE SARATOGA MEETING.

The Season at the Springs Successfully Opened.
The Summer meeting of the Saratoga Racing As-

The summer meeting of the Saratoga Racing Association, under new management, commenced on Monday, July 25. The weather was clear, but very hot, and the presence of about four thousand persons at the course gave encouragement to the managers. The improvements made on the grounds hot, and the presence of about four thousand persons at the course gave encouragement to the managers. The improvements made on the grounds were most favorably commented on by the patrons, and will undoubtedly materially ald in making the meeting financially successful. Although none of the big Eastern stables were represented in the list of entries, a very fair opening card was presented, and in most of the races interesting contests were witnessed. Ed. Cortigan started his crack, Huron, in the initial race, but he was disposed of in handy fashion by Dr. Hasbronck, who was deservedly a strong favorite. The Flash and Travers Stakes both fell-to the favorites, Azra, in the latter, being held at the prohibitive odds of 15 to 1 on, and winning in a big gallop. Summary:

Garfield Park Resumes.

The managers of Garfield Park, Chicago, Ill., resumed racing on Monday of last week, but no admission fee was charged to the grounds nor was there any pool selling there. On the following evening they determined to attempt to race on Wednesday afternoon, under the old arrangements. This they did, Mayor Washburne ordering the police not to interfere, as the question would be definitely decided in the courts within twenty-four hours, and he did not care to take the chances of a suit for damages for exceeding his authority. The races since decided are summarized below:

The Typos' Sports.

The Typos' Sports.

The members of the Printers' Benevolent Association, their families and friends, had their sonual outing on Saturday afternoon and evening. July 30, at Lion Park, this city. Whether it was owing to the excessive heat or the change of venue from their former partle ground, fones' Wood, to the somewhat less accessible park on the West side, or both combined, the assemblage was not so large as usual, nor so large as this always well conducted and enjoyable Summernight's festival deserved. The feature of the afterioon was the athletic sports, the majority of which were open to all amateurs, and a number of well known performers on the cinder among the competitors. The track was not one calculated to enable a runner to make very last time, consequently nothing remarkable was accomplished, nevertheless the contests were interesting and the spectators were well pleased, as were the winners with the bandsome prizes which rewarded their prowess. COMPANY.—DIFFERENT PROM ALL SINGLE TUENS. SPECIALTY RINS 20 MINUTES—A SURE HIT IN ANY PART OF THE OLIO. WHAT THE N.Y. PRESS HAS TO SAY ABOUT "PADDYWHISKEY," AT PASTORS, JULY 28, '92:

The clever specialty with a plano, given by Will H Fox as "Paddywhiskey, was by long odds the most unique and interesting feature of the variety performance at Tony Pastor's last night.—N.Y. HERALD. July 26, '92.

At Tony Fastor's, last night, the programme consisted of several good specialities. Will H. Fox, better known as "Paddywhiskey," may be said to have made the hit of the evening.—N.Y. MORNING JOURNAL, July 26, '92.

Among the most anusing of the specialists at Tony Fastor's was Will H. Fox, as "Paddywhiskey." Nr. Fox was repeatedly encored.—N.Y. DAILY NEWS, July 26, '92.

Mill H. Fox, as "Paddywhiskey," does more startling and amusing feats on the plann than the famous Paderewski ever dreamed of. The andience seemed to never tire of this laughable satire on the great planist, at Tony Fastor's last week.—N.Y. SUNDAY JOURNAL. June 3.

Longstreet, the great son of Longfellow, has broken down in the forelegs, and will not, it is stated, race again. This is a great loss to M. F. Dwyer and to the American turf, for he was one of the grandest thoroughbreds of the time. Longstreet was bought a year ago by Milt Young, of the McGrathians Stud, Kentucky, for $21,000, the horse to be delivered to him when his racing career was ended, and the prospects are that he will ere long be doing stud duty in the blue grass region.

FOMERLY WILMOT and LESTER.

DOUBLE CYCLISTS,

IN THEIR LATEST NOVELTIES,

Will Arrive in America Shortly, Direct from

CRYSTAL PALACE, London

AND WILL ARRANGE With First Class Company.

DESCRIPTION is impossible, but briefly, we dress in rich evening costumes, performing simultaneously on a single full sized Columbia bicycle, monocycle, little wheel, wagon wheel, balancing double with bicycle placed on tables and chairs, and also introduce numerous self invented novelties, which our agents will explain on application.

Wilmot has a world wide reputation as the originator and highly successsful exponent of this style of performance, and are the only persons using a full sized bicycle for double riding on the stage. The entire performance is presented in an artistic manner, with incredible dash and quickness from beginning to end, and from all we can learn of artists traveling in America our Act is totally unlike any ever seen there. A recent English journal correctly covers the matter as follows: "Those wondrous acrobatic cyclists, the Wilmots, gave displays of their remarkable skill, which must be seen to be appreciated, for a verbal description would fail to convey any idea of the extraordinary character of the feats which they perform with the most consumate ease. They are both exceedingly muscular men, as light as feathers, and as agile as monkeys, and they go through their performance with a grace and quickness which seem natural to them."

We have written the most detailed description of our act possible, and sent it, together with photographs, lithographs, and a private letter from the Manager of the Crystal Palace, London, to our only American Agents, who will give all particulars of our act. Address, for all information, in his Picturesque Dramatic Comedy Creation, entitled

Written especially for the star by America's Great Playwriter,

Mr. Frank Dumont.

Managers, this is a New Play, dealing with the Noble Men and Devoted Women of America. It is no rough Western shooting play, but a genuine American Play in Prologue and four Acts, that I have spent a great deal of time on, in fitting it up to suit the public taste for a good Thrilling Dramatic Creation, and I can safely say that all managers that want a Box Winner, can find no better play on the road today. I recommend Richard Warde to you as an accomplished actor and worthy of your attention.

For further reference address

FRANK DUMONT, Author,

Stage Manager for Dockstader's Minstrels.

"American Pluck" is a Comedy Drama which Frank Dumont has written for Richard Warde, and it certainly teems with bright lines and stirring situations. Every scene goes with a rush, and the author has fitted the Star with the Best Play of the Season.—PHIL. J. GÓRDON, "Frontier Mail" Combination.
